

Kohtumine Sirje Helme ja Paavo Nõgenega Eesti Saatkonnas

Director General of Estonia's National Museum of Art (KUMU) announced on Thursday, August 13th, at the Estonian Embassy in Washington D.C. that the National Gallery of Art and KUMU will in 2018 cooperate in showing 20 paintings by Michael Sittow (born in Tallinn, 1469-1525). The show will run three months in Washington and three months in Tallinn. Sittow was queen Isabella's court painter. The works come from Spain, the Netherlands, Germany, and the United States. This is a major event, a great recognition of Estonia's Museum of Art as a worthy partner of the world's major art museums.

Text Ago Ambre.

WES members had a great opportunity to meet Sirje Helme and Paavo Nõgene at the Estonian Embassy in Washington. Mr. Nõgene talked about the Estonian cultural events worldwide.